Forty-six men's DI clubs compete this weekend in a series of league games. Here's a rundown:

West

Denver Highlanders

at

KC Blues

Glendale

at

Boulder

Denver Barbarians

at

Provo

Kansas City at home against a battered Highlanders team looks like a Blues win. Glendale, even without a couple of players, should have little trouble at Boulder.

The big question-mark game is Denver Barbarians at Provo. Both teams are making their 2012-2013 league season debuts. This will come down to execution. The Barbarians are in better shape in their preparation and in their coaching setup, but if they make mistakes, Provo will punish.

It's not a long season for these teams, but there's still plenty of rugby to play. Glendale should move to 2-0, and KC to 2-1 after this weekend, but they won't be clear of anyone as the Barbarians or Provo will be 1-0.

Midwest

Indianapolis Impalas

at

Chicago Blaze

Detroit Tradesmen

at

Chicago Griffins

Metropolis

at

Chicago Lions

Columbus

at

Milwaukee Barbarians

Cincinnati Wolfhounds

at

Palmer

[illegible]