

CNN gave rugby a little love recently, as a story by Ashley Strickland made their website. Strickland looks at American rugby, and particularly college rugby, through the eyes of different programs and players, focusing largely on the state of Georgia. Cal's Jack Clark is quoted, and the piece paints a good picture of the hurdles facing college rugby in America.